COME AND HAVE BREAKFAST

What an invitation ! Here was the Risen Jesus using his early morning barbecue skills to care for his traumatised companions who were shattered by his crucifixion and still afraid to hope in him again, even though he was risen. They had deserted him in his hour of need, but there is no reprimand, only kindness as he respects their tiredness after a difficult nights fishing. He is nurturing their relationships among themselves and with him. He knew how shared meals could create enriching friendships that last a lifetime.

All through the life of Jesus, mealtimes were crucial backdrops to his big moments (e.g. Cana, Bethany, Zacchaeus, Levi's house) climaxing in the gift of Eucharist at the Passover meal.

The implications for us are many and varied. Gratitude, respect, kindness can enrich our family meals and mould us to share fully in the Sunday Eucharist together.

Come and share love.

Fr. Tom
