“Give us Daily Bread”

Over the last century especially, Irish missionaries in their hundreds brought the good news of Jesus and of the Father's love to many peoples all over the world. Accompanying the faith and sacraments, these men and women brought education, medical services and community developments that enriched the living standards of many of the peoples to whom the missionaries went. They taught them to say the Our Father like ourselves, praising God and asking for all their needs.

“GIVE US TODAY OUR DAILY BREAD”

Today, these same communities, especially in the Horn of Africa, are suffering drought, failed harvests with resultant starvation and death. They plead for daily nourishment, with us, the Father's food-laden children.

The Father has given the world enough to feed all his children if we avoid waste and selfishness. In this weekend's Gospel, the Pharisee “proves” his virtue by claiming to fast twice a week. Could we do better? The savings that accrue would enable Trocaire and Concern to give our brothers and sisters and their children their daily bread.

“WE GIVE THANKS FOR OUR DAILY BREAD”
