23rd Sunday © - INVITATION TO LOVE AND BE LOVED - Lk: 25-3

New Beginnings

September is a great month for new beginnings in the cycle of human living. The farmer is already ploughing and preparing the soil for reseeded. Even the birds are scattering the seeds of new life.

New beginnings on so many sides. To remain stagnant in any area is to die. This is true of water, of relationships, of love, of family, of neighbourhoods, of parishes, of faith, of religion.

Now is the time of appreciation and growth, appreciation of one another and of all God's gifts: especially the gift of His unconditional love (today's Gospel highlights the price of receiving this love. See the reflection overleaf) growth in love and service.

Give thanks to each one who has blessed your life.

Give time to family, to friends, to prayer.

Give love in the measure you hope to receive.

Give service beyond duty in building up the community.

Give welcome to every initiative of goodness.

Enable the young to realise their potential for goodness.

Enable others to believe in themselves and in God.

Enable the poor to live with dignity.

Enable the disabled to flourish.

Enable the discouraged to hope and make a new start.

Do it now before the chance is lost forever.

Hoarded seeds (like time, talent and money) never bear fruit.

Have a fruitful autumn and winter.

Fr. Tom Clancy.

Monday, 8th September, we salute Mary's birthday. It could be a good occasion to renew family prayer with a decade of the Rosary at evening meal time or bedtime.
